

Mbutu's Mangos Activities

Mbutu's Mangos teaches children not to waste useful things and reminds them of the cycles of nature.

1. Engage in a recycling project. Identify items that are often thrown away, that can be reclaimed and transformed into art, or an instrument or a gift for someone else.
2. Complete a planting project based on Mbutu's new found interest in agriculture.
3. Go on a mango hunt to find different varieties of the fruit, different products derived from the fruit.
4. Explore various ways mangos are used by different cultures, find recipes and make Mango Lassi or mango mousse.
5. Visit marketplaces. Parents and children can visit various markets in the region, e.g. Farmer's markets, seafood market, or craft market, then describe the different people, products and environments in both written and picture form.
